Respect and support for human rights

As part of our support of human rights, we recognise the importance of respecting and supporting human rights while operating a business, which includes:

- complying with all applicable laws and supporting internationally recognised human rights, in all areas of operation;

- avoiding causing or contributing to adverse human rights impacts through our business activities and commitment to addressing those human rights impacts when they occur;
- preventing or mitigating adverse human rights impacts that are directly linked to our operations, products, services and/or business relationships;
- appropriate due diligence processes to identify, prevent and mitigate adverse human rights impacts as part of Zip Group's risk assessment process;
- using the process of risk assessment and reporting under the Modern Slavery Act 2018 (Cth) as a means of seeking to meaningfully and practically address modern slavery in its supply chains and operations;
- providing training for all new employees and contractors of Zip Group and other appropriate staff members.

We aspire to raise awareness about human rights issues throughout our workplaces and recognise that this is an important step in addressing human rights issues. We recognise that such awareness raising is only effective if it is communicated effectively and in an appropriate context for the particular workplace environment being targeted. In addition, we aspire to engage in our direct business relationships in a manner that, insofar as is reasonably practicable, promotes human rights within the supply chains and operations in those organisations also.

Reporting human rights violations

Zip's Whistleblower Policy is available to parties seeking to raise human rights violations and concerns and, where appropriate, seek remedy.
